SILVER ANNIVERSARY

A charming event of the week was the luncheon Tuesday October 12th at the hospitable home of Mrs. Fred Wolf, celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the Wauseon Women's Club. The large sunny rooms were beautifully decorated with autumn flowers and leaves. Miss Emily Bouton of Toledo, an honorary member sent a beautiful basket of flowers and another exquisite piece in Club Colors was given by Mrs. Charles Stotzer and Miss Bertha Hilton, ex-presidents of the Club.

As the guests arrived, old friendships were renewed and new ones begun in the greeting of new members.

After a delicious luncheon, the President, Mrs. W. A. Scott spoke of the delightful significance of the occasion and presented Mrs. Stotzer, a charter member, who took the part of toastmistress in place of Mrs. H. T. Brigham, on account of recent illness, though present, was unable to take the part. Mrs. Stotzer by her charming introductory remarks and personal personality added much to the atmosphere of real enjoyment.

As the roll of the charter members was called, those present responded with fitting words. For those who have been traveling in the east for the past two months topped here on their return trip last Saturday to spend a week or two with her sister Mrs. H. C. Guilford.

"CAMP ROOSEVELT"

America is awake to the urgent need for stamping out radicalism in this vast "Land of the Free." In every newspaper and magazine there is heard the loud cry for "Education" to rid us of this menace. Senators and statesmen are profuse in their calls for help on this score. At dinners and banquets the question is discussed and the answer is always the same, "Education must eradicate this evil."

To educate the foreign-born in the rudiments of civics is, therefore, one of the most important tasks before our country today. To educate the children of these foreign-born is an equally important task, for it involves the peace and security of our coming generations. The introduction of the Junior Reserve Officers' Training Corps in the Chicago Public High Schools, during the winter of 1917 was the fulfillment of a plan inaugurated by Captain F. L. Beals, Professor of Military Science and Tactics and Director of Physical Education in the Chicago Public High Schools, pointing in that direction. The fact that today most of the large cities in the country are following this plan is proof of its utility.

With the idea of furthering the interests and welfare of our great American boyhood, a summer training high school camp was inaugurated by Captain Beals during the summer of 1919, five miles south of Muskegon, Michigan. The camp was named CAMP ROOSEVELT, in honor of that great statesman and soldier whose name it bears and the high ideals for which he stood in his lifetime are the fundamental characteristics underlying this great movement. The camp has the backing of the Chicago Board of Education, as shown by a letter submitted by Mr. Peter A. Mortenson, Superintendent of Chicago Public High Schools.

It was my privilege to spend a day at Camp Roosevelt. To enjoy the expanse of grounds, flanked by tree clad hills, the splendid arrangements for the comfort and progress of the cadets and to feel the atmosphere and spirit of service, is to appreciate the camp. The results in scholarship, as well as physical and mental development under these conditions, were remarkable. Camp Roosevelt is another word for "Opportunity."

It is interesting to note also that the War Department of the U. S. Government has adopted the Camp Roosevelt Plan as a national policy, and is endeavoring to establish three or four more camps similar to Camp Roosevelt.

Captain F. L. Beals, U. S. A. Commandant of the Camp, has dedicated his life to boy-builing. Captain Beals' trade is boys. His life interest is boys, and his ultimate aim is to so mould the growing boy of today that he will develop into the very finest specimen of clean, wholesome American citizen. As an officer of the U. S. Army, he grasped the greatness of the healing, building work that had been accomplished at the training camps throughout the country during the world war. He sought long for ways and means by which to inculcate into his work so that the maximum amount of good could be wrought for the adolescent boy. The culmination of many months of strenuous, concentrated thought and of prime importance in the business of boy-builing. Parents of growing boys should interest themselves in this object and support to the fullest extent the CAMP ROOSEVELT PLAN.

FARM BUREAU MEETING

Fourteen men from Fulton County attended the farm bureau picnic at Bowling Green last Wednesday.

Mr. Bradfute stated that though the farm bureau movement was young it numbered about one million members and represented the greatest industry on the face of the globe. He said that the farmer had been saving to other business men, what will you take for your product and what will you give for mine, as long as he could remember.

The farm bureau, said Mr. Bradfute, does not propose to be unfair to any other class of people but it does propose to bend every effort toward making it possible for the farmer to get cost of production plus a fair profit for his products. Only by accomplishing that end can we expect men to remain in the agricultural profession and this nation to be self supporting.

It is imperative that the farmers make up their minds that they will hire the keenest experts to represent them in marketing, transportation, legislative and other problems.

Clifford Thorne, the keenest transportation expert in the country was hired by the American Farm Bureau Federation to represent the farmers interests before the Interstate Commerce Commission in connection with the railroad request for increased rates.

It was granted that
